DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-4 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Yamada et al. U.S. Patent No. 6,165,982 A.

The claims are drawn to a composition comprising sericin with dependent claims drawn to the sericin having an average molecular weight of from 5,000 to 100,000.

Yamada et al. teach compositions comprising sericin and its hydrolyzate. (see abstract). Compositions of sericin are disclosed with molecular weights to 100,000 (see Example 1). It is noted that the reference does not teach that the sericin can be used in the manner instantly claimed, as a skin cancer preventative agent, however, the intended use of the claimed composition does not patentably distinguish the composition, per se, since such undisclosed use is inherent in the reference composition. In order to be limiting, the intended use must create a structural difference between the claimed composition and the prior art composition. In the instant case, the intended use does not create a structural difference, thus the intended use is not limiting. Please note that when applicant claims a composition in terms of function and the composition of the prior art appears to be the same, the Examiner may make a rejection under both 35 U.S.C. §102 and §103, expressed as a 102/103 rejection (MPEP 2112).

"The patentability of a product does not depend upon its method of production. If the product in [a] product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, [then] the claim is unpatentable even though the prior [art] product was made by a different process." In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (citations omitted). Once the examiner provides a rationale tending to show that the claimed product appears to be the same or similar to that of the prior art, although produced by a different process, the burden shifts to the applicant to come forward with evidence establishing an unobvious difference between the claimed product and the prior art product. In re Marosi, 218 USPQ 289, 292 (Fed. Cir. 1983).
